CHARLESTON MAY DEFEAT NORFOLK

Navy Department Said to Be Considering Its Transfer to Charleston.

Washington, September 26.—The Navy Department is considering a proposal to transfer the marine corps recruit depot from Norfolk to Charleston, S. C., provided permanent housing facilities can be provided there.

The 1,000 recruits at the Norfolk station are quartered in tents on the naval reservation. It is held by some navy officials that the Charleston site has superior advantages over that at Norfolk. It is pointed out that the enlargement of present quarters at Norfolk would encroach on land required for purely industrial purposes, should the navy yard there be developed along lines which have been considered.

Advocates of the Charleston site say there is ample space there. Climatic conditions are such at the proposed site that instruction of recruits could be carried on out-of-doors nearly every day of the year. There also is ground for drill purposes and for a rifle range.

Officers are not decided as to the location of the permanent quarters at Charleston, if a more suitable site can be obtained elsewhere. They urge that the temporary makeshift of quartering nearly 1,000 recruits in tents, as at present at Norfolk, should be abandoned.

"DO AS I SHALL, DENY IT," SAYS SULZER TO PECK

W. Brady, John T. Dooling, J. Temple Gwathmey, Luitpold Mendelbaum and Judge Lewis J. Conlan, all of New York, testified that they had contributed checks or cash ranging from $100 to $1,000, none of which was mentioned in the Governor's sworn statement of campaign contributions.

Counsel Fights Desperately.
Counsel for the defense fought desperately to gain from each witness testimony that he had made the gift not for the purpose of helping the Governor in his political contest, but to aid him personally.

"Didn't you give this check because you knew that the Governor was in an impudently condition?"

"Didn't you? You knew the Governor was hard up?"

"Didn't you give this to him to help him out of the difficulty?"

These were questions by which Judge Herrick sought to obtain from the witnesses admissions that they had placed no restrictions on their contributions.

Donations for "Any Purpose."
Objection of counsel for the prosecution to admitting evidence that showed a letter from the donors twice was overruled by a vote of the court, which was in keeping with opinions previously rendered by Presiding Judge Cullen.

Crocker, Dr. Cox, Judge Conlan and Brady all testified that their contributions had been given to the Governor for other purposes than campaign expenses if he wished so to use them.

Brady testified that he and Judge Conlan and other contributors to the fund had discussed the question of the Governor's financial condition at the Manhattan Club in New York.

"Did you talk about the necessity of doing something to help him because of his financial condition?" asked Judge Herrick.

"Yes, we did," said Brady.

One Specific Donation.
Gwathmey, on the other hand, produced a letter which had been to the Governor, which read:

"I enclose please find $100, which I wish you would hand to the people who are conducting your personal campaign, as I wish this money to be devoted to that cause alone."

The prosecution brought in to-day the first testimony to support charges that the Governor used some of his campaign funds to speculate in Wall Street.

Philip Boyer, head of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Boyer, Griswold & Co., and two of his employees testified that the purchase of Colwell of $12,000 worth of Big Four stock, paid for by seven checks given Sulzer, was his own personal check for $900 and $1,125 in cash. These checks were those of Theodore W. Myers, John Lynn, Lyman A. Spaulding, Edward E. Sawyer, John W. Frank, Frank W. Strauss Co. and John T. Dooling.

Murphy Is Ready.
New York, September 26.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, said this afternoon:

"I have come here to testify at Albany, there is no necessity of a subpoena being issued for me. Let them call me up on the telephone and I'll answer right away. I will be willing and ready to go."

The Times-Dispatch Bureau,

(Telephone 1455),
Petersburg, Va., September 26.

A feature of last evening's proceedings in the trial of Waverly Blanks for the killing of George W. Nunnally was the testimony of Dr. H. G. Leigh, the coroner, who visited the scene of the tragedy, viewed the body of the dead engineer, took notes of the surroundings, and subsequently held an autopsy on the body. The ball which caused almost instant death cut the aorta, snapped off a piece of the pericardial sac and touched the spinal column. The defendant's plea of not guilty is based on his claim from the very first that after he had been shot by Nunnally, the latter shot and killed himself. Based upon his experience of many years with cases of suicide, by virtue of his office as coroner, Dr. Leigh expressed and reiterated the opinion that Nunnally did not shoot himself. The position of the body, the character of the wound, the position of the pistol, lying two feet away from the shoulder—all combined to preclude the possibility of suicide, which might possibly have been the case, but if so it was one of rare exception. Dr. Leigh further stated that Blanks' wound was caused by a ball entering the left side above the waistline, ranging downward, striking the hip bone, which caused its deflection upward. The ball did not penetrate the abdomen. Dr. Leigh stated that Blanks' death was due to the wound in the chest, and that he had a pistol, saying that he was not compelled to answer questions asked by the coroner.

The crowd in the courtroom yesterday remained until adjournment last night. Among those present were the wife and children of the accused, and many friends of both men. The crowd in the courtroom to-day was larger than that of yesterday. The first witness for the prosecution was Dr. J. Bolling Jones, called as an expert. He corroborated Dr. Leigh's statement that it was impossible for Nunnally to have fired the pistol shot which killed him. The pistol could not have fallen where it was found.

The prosecution rested its case with the testimony of Chief of Police Ragland. Captain Ragland stated that he went to Nunnally's room on the night of the shooting and saw the dead body of Nunnally lying on the bed. He also testified to the finding of one pistol ball in Nunnally's bed, and another on the washstand in the room. The chief heard the conversation between Dr. Leigh and Blanks at the hospital. In reply to Dr. Leigh's questions about his pistol, Blanks said: "I am not compelled to answer any questions you ask me." Blanks subsequently stated that he had a pistol, but being high tempered and fearing that he might do some damage, he had thrown it away.

Case for the Defense.
Following the close of its case by the Commonwealth, the defense immediately began its testimony—the first witness called being Waverly Blanks, the accused. He said that he is thirty-three years old, was born in Petersburg, and with the exception of brief periods, had always lived here.

He was married on May 23, 1907, and has a wife and three children. He gave a detailed account of his movements on June 27, the day of the tragedy, and the places in the city he visited. At a place on Sycamore Street, in the afternoon, he met Nunnally. He asked Nunnally why he had told him (Blanks) the wife that he loved her better than he ever loved his own wife. "I told him," said the witness, "that he had told my wife lies on me, and I went to his bed and told him to get up, dress himself and face my wife. Nunnally got up, got a jug and asked me to take a drink with him, which I refused. Nunnally said: 'I understand you have got a gun' and I said 'Yes, now get yours.' I heard him say 'Now get yours.' He then told me not to get into any difficulty, and I told him this was a personal affair between Nunnally and myself. Nunnally again invited me to have a drink, and began crying because he would not do so. He then fired at me, and when I told him he had shot me he replied: 'I hope not, my boy.' When I fell from the effect of the shot Nunnally helped me to my feet. I went out and told Mrs. Headon that I was shot, and before I could get into her I heard a pistol shot in Nunnally's room, and I said, 'Nunnally has shot himself.'"

Mrs. Alice Aldridge testified that she had frequently heard Nunnally say that he would take his life, and once she took a pistol from his pocket, fearing that he would kill himself.

Other witnesses for the defense this afternoon testified that they had frequently heard Nunnally threaten to commit suicide.

The case will go over until to-morrow, when instructions will be offered and argued, and the case will probably be given to the jury to-morrow afternoon.

FEAR COMMITTEE MAY BLUNDER IN NAMING MEMBER

Some of Major Martin's friends who were working in his behalf were under the impression, until otherwise informed last night, that he had resigned from the committee in June. He merely resigned then as chairman. Every effort was put forth to explain that there was no fight on Major Martin, and that the only objection to his candidacy and nomination was based on the fact that he is a member of the body which must select the next Senator.

Three Others Mentioned.
Samuel L. Kelley loomed up yesterday as a candidate with considerable backing. The name of James E. Cannon had been most prominently mentioned, although his friends stated that he felt a delicacy in entering the race against Major Martin because of their close personal relations. While they are not law partners, they have adjoining offices, and are known to be extremely friendly. Mr. Cannon's race for the House of Delegates showed that he had strong support. Friends of R. Lee Peters, president of the Common Council, were holding him back as a possible dark horse, hoping to send him forward if the opportunity presented itself.

It is not certain that the name of A. Beltré Blair will be offered in committee, although it was expected that he would have been a candidate in the event of a primary.

Mr. Kelley, who is a well-known lawyer and a former member of the House of Delegates, has been urged to fight for the nomination, although members of the city committee said that his nomination might be unfortunate and unwise, in view of the fact that he has appeared before the General Assembly as the paid attorney of the Liquor Dealers' Association, which the enabling act will be the biggest question up for consideration.

These Men Name Senator.
According to the program of official list, the City Democratic Committee is composed of the following members, who will name the State Senator:

J. M. Blanks, A. W. Browning, Horace B. Butler, Dr. Charles V. Carling, David Connell, George T. Davis, Walter G. Duke, E. W. Evans, Frank Ferrandini, R. R. Florence, Charles R. Foxwell, E. J. Fagan, James E. Hart, C. W. Hodges, Dr. R. Jennings, Dr. W. R. Jones, Jesse A. Ladd, P. J. Lenahan, Miles C. Martin, Dr. James H. Price, William C. Pulliam, J. M. Purcell, J. L. Redford, Clyde W. Saunders, R. P. Shifflett, Earle Sibley, Samuel Steiner and Wirt E. Taylor.

HORSES RUN AWAY
Forbes & Co.'s Team Smashes Dalton's Wagon on Hull Street.

Coming down Hull Street yesterday morning, the horses attached to a large delivery wagon owned by Forbes & Co. suddenly became unmanageable and broke into a fast run. They swerved from one side of the street to the other, scattering traffic in all directions. At Fifth and Hull Streets the team crashed into a wagon of R. E. Dalton, a grocer, the result being that the vehicle was smashed and the body broken up.

The horses became still more frightened at this collision, and plunged and reared, the driver having no control over them whatever. Their further ending by a telephone pole, into which they ran, about half a block further on.

Funeral of Mrs. Taylor.
The funeral of Mrs. Mary Jane Taylor, eighty-three years old, widow of John B. Taylor, who died on Thursday night at 6 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. T. Smith, of 25 East Street, Methodist Church, will be officiated at 3 o'clock from the residence, Rev. Roscoe M. White, pastor of Decatur Street Methodist Church, will officiate. The burial will be in Maury Cemetery.

Mrs. Taylor died very suddenly. Her daughter left her lying on a couch apparently in good health, and she died there while alone. Mrs. Taylor was well-known on the Southside and had a number of friends and relatives. She is survived by three sons, R. J. J. and E. H. Taylor, and by four daughters, Mrs. J. H. Leflon, Mrs. Pattie Marshall, Mrs. W. T. Smith and Mrs. J. R. Osterling.

Will Improve Mail Service.
In order to make the service more efficient, A. L. Bradley, foreman of carriers, began an inspection yesterday of all the routes in the Southside. The time taken by each individual carrier to deliver and collect mail is being covered, as is also the number of miles covered on the route. The work will last about a week. It is the intention of the postal authorities to give the public a more prompt and regular delivery of mail in the future.

Chester Business Men Meet.
The Business Men's League of Chester, which was recently organized by the citizens, will hold its first meeting on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in Graves Hall. The business men of Chester met on Wednesday and perfected the organization. It is the object of the league to secure many improvements for the village, such as street lights, good roads, advertising and manufacturing industries. Every one interested in the welfare of the community is invited to join the association.

To Distribute Address Cards.
That more mail is lost through being improperly addressed in any other way is the belief of the government. In order to educate the people in this important work, cards bearing the correct form of name and address will be distributed in the public schools. Superintendent Lloyd, of Manchester Station, will shortly receive a supply of the cards from Washington, and will have them given to the children in Powhatan and Bainbridge schools. They will also be explained to the pupils by the teachers.

The Swansboro League Meets.
The Swansboro School and Civic League held a regular session yesterday afternoon in the new school building. It was decided to hold the dedication exercises of the Swansboro School on next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Although the full program has not been arranged, it is understood that the Blues' Band will be secured. The appropriation for laying concrete walkways around the school was approved.

Many Enjoy Gypsy Fete.
With the parlors decorated in old Roman style, the home of Mrs. C. T. Jones, of 121 Porter Street, was thronged last night at the gypsy fete. Refreshments were sold in booths, the proceeds being donated to the building fund of the Memorial Episcopal Church. Music and other entertainments were rendered during the evening.

Personal and General.
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar G. Brinsler left Thursday for New York City, where they will spend about ten days. Mrs. W. E. D. McDonald is visiting.

Mr. Stock Owner
do you give your sick animals doped medicines?

Did you ever think of that? Many animals die after treatment with doped medicines which are worse than none at all. An animal with a weak heart or run-down condition cannot stand being drugged. When the reaction sets in they usually die.

You should take as much care in doctoring your stock as you would your family.

Noah's Horse Remedies
are medicines—not dope. Be on the safe side by giving your animals these tested remedies.

Noah's Colic Remedy is recommended for that most dangerous disease, Colic, and is harmless in its effect. Simple to administer—given on the tongue. Cheap in price—50c a bottle, and worth 2 to any stock owner.

Noah's Fever Remedy is a medicine for fever, coughs, colds, distemper, influenza, lung troubles, and the treatment of milk fever in cows. Given on the tongue. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00.

Noah's Liniment is the best all-round family and stable remedy on the market. Contains turpentine, alcohol, chloroform, ammonia, naphtha, benzine, or poisonous drugs. 25c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle.

Noah's Kura-Gal Ointment for fresh cuts, old sores, scratches, collar galls, sore backs, and thrush in horses—cannot be best. 25c per tin.

Sold by all dealers in Medicine
Made in Richmond by Noah Remedy Co.
"My dear friends," says the Noah Remedy Co. "the best we have ever used, especially the liniment for the cure of sore shoulders. He also endorses your colic remedy as being fine and a sure cure."—D. J. Grimes, Sup't. Davis, Sup't. State Farm Lassiter, Va.

"I have been using Noah's Remedies on our stock with fine results, and find them to be the best of the kind I have ever used."—D. J. Grimes, Sup't. Davis, Sup't. State Farm Lassiter, Va.

We cheerfully recommend all stock owners to give Noah's Remedies a trial and be convinced of their wonderful curative properties. We have obtained better results from their use than we did from remedies costing $5.00 per bottle."—Norfolk and Portsmouth Transfer Co., Norfolk, Va.
